

Vince Welch

Vince Welch is a popular radio and television personality who also finds time to share his sports stories and business acumen with audiences large and small.

The Indianapolis native and Ball State University graduate was the sports program director at Indianapolis WIBC radio from 1998 to March 2007. Prior to that, Vince worked as a sports reporter for WISH-TV and the sports director for WNDY.

Currently Welch is a member of the ABC / ESPN team covering the NASCAR Sprint Cup Series and Nationwide Series. Welch also handles pit reporting for the network's IndyCar Series coverage, including the Indianapolis 500. He has been involved with coverage of the IndyCar Series, on both TV and radio, since its formation in 1996. He is also the play-by-play voice for the Ball State University Sports Network.

Whether you're seeking an entertaining sports speaker, a business speaker, a mix of the two, or a lively emcee for your event, you'll be happy you chose Vince Welch.
